Real Estate Answering Services

Real Estate Answering Services.

When it comes to real estate, personal attention is possibly the most important factor in choosing the right sales specialist. Clients want to hear that you understand what their ideal home looks like, their bottom line listing price, their target search area, and anything else that is specific to their buying or selling experience. If they are being put on hold or shuffled off to your automated service, you will not have the opportunity to show them how much you value their business, because they will already be on the phone to the next agent.

Real estate agents that become top producers understand they need all lines of communication open at all times. Cititel Live Telephone Answering Service knows that answering every call, making every appointment and satisfying everyone is just not possible without help.

With Cititel's Real Estate Answering Services both realtors and brokers can have a professional call center agent answer all the calls you might otherwise miss. Remember you only pay for the calls we handle on your behalf.

Cititel is a leading call centre company headquartered in Alberta. We help professionals and businesses with live customer support 24 hours a day. You can think of our friendly virtual receptionists as an extension of your office—whether you're a start-up or a veteran in your field.
